Council to be quizzed over smaller school plans

Parents are set to question Kingston Council about its latest plans for a smaller new secondary school tonight.

The school, to be located in the North Kingston Centre, will have just 180 places, with six forms of entry, rather than the initial 240 across eight forms.

North Kingston has been hit by a school places crisis, which escalated in 2008 after the council was hit by a rising birth rate and a fall in children in private schools.

The new director of learning and children's service Nick Whitfield

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

has written to parents telling them the school will be smaller, partly based on places at Grey Court in Richmond.

Councillor Patricia Bamford, Kingston's lead member for children and young people, said the decrease was based on changed pupil projections.

She said: "There was some opposition to an eight-form of entry school anyway. Some people thought it would be too large for the site. We don't want to waste resources."

Conservative councillor Dennis Doe said he recommended just six forms back in 2007.

He said: "Instead of faffing about as they have been doing for years we have now got a director who says these are the figures, this is how we are going to do it."

"The figures suggest that six forms will be enough in north Kingston."

But Laurie South, the chairman of Kingston Labour Party, warned if more places were needed, the backlash would be costly.

He said: "If you have insufficient classes in a school the fury is going to be just overwhelming. If they get it wrong they deserve all the acrimony that parents can fire upon them."

Kingston Educational Trust will enter the proposals to the Department for Education for the next round of free school submissions, which close on January 4, next year.

The council had hoped to start building last month, but failed funding bids and the shift to a free school proposal, put the bid back.

Traffic light fault causes gridlock

by CHRISTINE FLEMING

newsdesk@kingstonguardian.co.uk

Malfunctioning traffic lights were the cause of road chaos across the whole of Kingston last Monday, leaving frustrated commuters bumper to bumper for hours.

Parents trying to get children to school and workers struggling to get to the office were also hampered by a gas leak in the town.

Traffic chaos ensued in the town centre because of the traffic light signal faults.

A Transport for London (TfL) spokesman said, although traffic lights were working, a fault with the phone line meant the lights in town were unable to communicate with each other to synchronise the timings.

Selvarani Elahi said congestion took her two hours to do the school run and get to work, finally arriving at 9.40am.

She said: "Queens Road was closed at 8.15am, causing gridlock during the school run."

"After not moving for ages, I parked my car and walked up Kingston Hill to drop my daughter at school."

"I then turned the car around and came back through Richmond Park to avoid Kingston."

One pet owner, who asked not be named, said she was stuck in traffic for an hour-and-a-half taking her dog from her Ham home to a New Malden vet.

She said: "People were getting pretty steamed up. Both lanes were blocked in both directions. It was all the way down to the Kingston bypass."

A gas leak also sparked emergency repairs, causing major road problems in Surbiton Hill Road.

The Tolworth bound side of the road was shut on Monday to allow work to be carried out, causing diversions through Surbiton town centre.

Hannah Brett, spokeswoman for Southern Gas Network, said: "Due to the particularly awkward location of the gas main, it has been necessary to temporarily close the road while we work to fix the leaks."

"We would like to apologise to residents and road-users for the inconvenience and thank them for their patience while we complete these essential repairs."

A TfL spokesman said: "Due to a telecommunications fault, the traffic signals around Kingston town centre could not communicate with each other as they normally would do, which led to congestion in the area."

"The problem was repaired as quickly as possible by Monday evening and TfL would like to apologise for any inconvenience caused."

Slide away

Snowless roads will not keep Surbiton's best skiers away this year.

Thrill-seekers will strap ice cubes to their feet and slide their way through Surbiton in a suburban ski-off on Sunday.

Anyone is invited to take part in the Seething suburban skiing event that hopes to find the fastest skier.

The event will raise money for Shooting Star's Children's Hospice and the Creative Youth charity.

The Ski Sunday will take place on October 14 from 11am at St Mark's Hill.

It will be followed by a parade that will end with residents going to the King's Soup event. Once there they will all join forces to help cook a hearty soup for a community feast at Claremont Gardens.

Pastors to offer advice and flip flops

Kingston street pastors were raising awareness of the importance of keeping safe when out and about ahead of national personal safety day.

Helping: Chief Inspector Bill Heasman and street pastor Paul Jacobs with free flip-flops and water

The pastors set up a stand at the corner of Eden Street and Clarence Street on Saturday to offer advice about personal safety and give tips about issues, such as keeping an eye on drinks when in bars and being aware of what is going on around you while using mobile phones and other technology while walking the streets.

They talked to the public and gave out 250 personal alarms, flip-flops, water, and advice, along with Kingston First, Kingston police and the NHS.

Police station closed on Sunday

Kingston police station will be closed to the public on Sunday for electrical works between 6.30am and 5pm. Callers can call at Millbank House at 171-185 Ewell Road, Surbiton.

The police station is mid-way through a rebuild, expected to be completed in July.

Delay to having your say on ward closures

A consultation on plans to axe an emergency ward and maternity unit at a hospital in south-west London have been delayed.

The Better Services Better Value (BSBV) review, which aims to improve services and save money, was due to be under way but has been put back to include views from NHS providers in Surrey.

The public consultation will now also enable people from Surrey who use south-west London hospitals to express their views.

The consultation, to decide to shut the units at either Kingston, Croydon, St Helier, Sutton, or St George's Tooting, is now likely to begin in November.

In July, BSBV put forward its preferred model for health services in south-west London recommending St Helier lose its accident and emergency and its maternity departments.

A spokeswoman for the Better Services Better Value programme said: "These are only recommendations."

Nurse who tied patient with sheet allowed to work again

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

A care home nurse who tied a woman with dementia down with a bed sheet to stop her smearing faeces over herself is free to return to nursing, a hearing has ruled.

Orlando de la Cruz, who was a nurse at Galsworthy House Nursing Home on Kingston Hill, had his ruling delivered on Friday by the Nursing and Midwifery Council (NMC) after a two-day hearing.

He admitted restraining an elderly woman, referred to as resident A, by tying a bed sheet over her body to the rails on either side of the bed.

The NMC panel said Mr de la Cruz's actions on January 15 last year placed her at risk of harm and were "misguided" but said he was trying to protect her.

The panel heard it was a bad night for resident A, who was restless, and the sheet was tied loosely.

She remained tied up until a handover the following day when she was found by staff on the day shift.

Mr de la Cruz was present at the hearing but was not legally represented.

He told the panel that the incident had taught him to be more cautious and said he would now act differently if he was faced with a similar situation.

He said that he considered himself to be a hands-on nurse who enjoyed caring for patients and said that he would never restrain a patient again.

The panel said there was no evidence Mr de la Cruz's restraint arose out of any improper motives or with intent to harm the woman and they were satisfied he would not do it again.

They said: "This was a one-off incident and the panel is satisfied that appropriate steps have been taken by Mr de la Cruz to remediate this behaviour."

The panel ruled that his fitness to practise was not impaired and did not impose any sanctions on him, leaving him free to continue working as a nurse, when the hearing concluded on Friday, October 5.

A spokesman for Galsworthy House said: "While the NMC has brought no sanctions against Mr de la Cruz, we can categorically confirm he has not been an employee of Galsworthy House since we reported the incident and investigated in January 2011."

"When the incident occurred 20 months ago, the senior staff team acted immediately and Mr de la Cruz was suspended straight away and all of the appropriate authorities were informed. An internal investigation was held and Mr de la Cruz was dismissed."

"The health and wellbeing of our residents is our absolute priority and we are proud of the high quality care we deliver."

Popular event: Worshippers from the parish of St John the Baptist had their pets blessed by the Rev Kevin Scott

Creatures great and small blessed

In heaven, as the saying goes, the lion will lie down with the lamb.

But down here on Earth, supernatural levels of tolerance were needed for cats, dogs, rabbits, gerbils, and hamsters to settle down during a special church service for pets recently.

The parish church of St John the Baptist, in Old Malden, welcomed the animals and their owners for the service.

One of the cats was transfixed by a nearby hamster, just a leap away, but resisted temptation.

The Rev Kevin Scott led the service in the Lady Chapel of the church and blessed the pets, which included eight cats and five dogs, and members of the congregation.

He said: "We did it because, apart from being a good thing to do, we wanted to affirm to people that God is concerned with the whole."

"Pets generate a huge amount of love, which comes from God."

Mr Scott has run the pet service before and said, given its success, he would definitely hold it again.

'Threats to kill' charge

A man charged with carrying a kitchen knife and threatening to kill someone has appeared in court.

He denied the charges when he appeared in court on October 2. He was granted conditional bail and will appear at Wimbledon Magistrates' Court on November 13.

'Funds delay' means school will not be finished on time

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Children will be stuck in temporary classrooms for another three months after the architect for a school rebuild admitted next year's September deadline could not be met.

The assurance that the temporary decant of Christ Church Junior School would be for only a year was made as recently as two weeks ago.

But architect Nick Baker told parents and residents on Wednesday the school would not be finished until January because of delays in Government funding.

He said: "If you are starting behind the line you are never going to catch up, even if you are Usain Bolt."

"We really are in desperate situations. We are doing as much as we possibly can."

The school was relocated into seven temporary classrooms on playing fields behind Mount Road in New Malden after its Elm Road site was declared dangerous last year.

It was hoped the temporary move would free up the junior school site and allow for a rebuild to be completed in time for pupils to return to for the new school year in September 2013.

Headteacher Tabitha White said planning permission to stay on the temporary site would now have to be extended for longer than the agreed 12-month period.

She said: "We thought we would get the amount of funding in earlier. It is a frustrating situation."

A planning application will be submitted in two weeks and it is hoped it will be considered at Kingston Council's committee meeting on December 12 to allow work to start next March.

Plans for the new school include six car parking spaces, including a disabled bay, cycle racks, a covered entrance, a paved and protected waiting area, and a large hall.

Architects hope to include panels of coloured glass after its successful use at the borough's newest school, Lime Tree Primary in Surbiton, and hope a kitchen will be added at a later stage when funding becomes available.

Plans will remain on display in the school for the public to view.

Here to stay for now: Pupils, far left, in the temporary classrooms, above

Deadlinepix HY4999

'Not realistic from beginning'

Residents raised fears over safety, traffic and overcrowding when the move was proposed and were promised the temporary decant would be for a maximum of 12 months to keep disruption to a minimum.

Chestnut Grove resident Maureen Wilkins said: "They have not been realistic from the beginning."

"We knew that but I think they think we are all brain dead. I do not think they have put enough into it to get it done in time."

Chestnut Grove resident

Vic Platten was hoping his twin daughters would attend the Church of England school in the future and said he thought the school had done the best it could have, given the circumstances.

He said: "Clearly the earlier the school is built the better but if someone does not tell you how much money you have got at all so late that is an inevitable consequence."

"That is the Government's issue again, not a function of the school or governors."

Play area goes soft

The opening of a new two-storey soft play area is edging closer for excited young Kingston children.

A purpose-built area with wavy slides, ball pools and zip wires will officially open at the YMCA Hawker Centre, on Friday, October 26, with a public opening the following day.

Part of a £400,000 full redevelopment of the community centre, the children's play pod will be open daily from 9.30am to 5.30pm from the end of the month.

Crown court trial for man accused of £300k fraud

A 52-year-old man who has been accused of committing more than £300,000 worth of fraud has been remanded in custody.

John Stalker, of Canbury

Park Road, appeared in court on October 2, accused of three charges of fraud by false representation and one of acquiring, possessing or using criminal property.

It is alleged he applied for and used a cheque book linked to somebody else's account, set up online banking and made transfers from somebody else's account and falsely acted as the landlord of somebody else's property.

Mr Stalker has not entered a plea but a date for referring his case to crown court is expected to be made on November 13.

MURDER TRIAL: The date for the trial of a man accused of killing a 37-year-old Kingston mum has been set. Muhammed Asad Niazi, 29, will face trial at the Old Bailey on December 3 on a charge of murdering care worker and mother-of-one Charito Cruz, of Cambridge Road, on September 26 last year.

XMAS FUN: Kingston's Tudor Christmas market will take over the Market Place from November 8 to December 24. Wooden chalets housing gift stalls, mulled wine stands and carol singers will all be on offer.

Kittens rescued from rubbish bin

Tiny kittens that were found abandoned in a rubbish bin are looking for a new home.

Three five-week-old cats were brought into the Goddard Veterinary Practice in Kingston by a man who heard the sound of their desperate meows in a black bin bag in Surbiton, on Tuesday, September 18.

Despite the best efforts of the vet practice to save the kittens one of the felines had to be put down leaving behind his brother and sister.

Vets and nurses at the practice in Park Road have named the tabby and white cat Oliver

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

and his tortoiseshell and white sister Bonnie.

Student veterinary nurse Zoe Crook has taken the pair under her wing, hand-rearing them and getting up during the night to ensure they are fed around the clock.

She said: "Kittens should be with their mother until they are eight weeks old so these kittens are really very young and I do not understand how someone could be so cruel as to just abandon them in a bin.

"We are grateful to the caring young man who brought them in to us and are doing everything we can to help them recover from this ordeal."

Vet at the practice Heather Covey urged people having difficulty caring for their pets to call rescue charities or their vet rather than abandoning them.

She said: "There is help available and animals should not be left to suffer in this way.

"These two are lucky because they were found in the nick of time.

"Zoe and the team are doing a great job caring for them. We hope that, in a few weeks' time, we will be able to find loving homes for them."

Anyone interested in offering a home to one of the kittens should call the practice on 020 8546 3296.

In Sutton last month, three kittens were due to be given away as a wedding present until the RSPCA stepped in.

Mars, Jupiter and Venus were to be handed over at a Southall wedding but were rescued and taken to Animal Lifeline in Sutton.

Foodies' paradise: Some of the highlights of Kingston's night market

Late market shows Eastern promise

Kingston's historic Market Place was turned into a night market from the Far East for one evening.

Traders from all over the capital came to Kingston to set up food and art stalls last Thursday night.

A Thai food stall, Bang Wok, specialising in traditional sweet pad-thai noodles, boasted the longest queue on the night.

The Pizza Pilgrims stall, which made one-minute Napoli-inspired pizzas from the back of a food van, was also a hit with foodies.

The night market was a collaboration between Kingston First and organisers The StockMKT, who put on their first London night market in Bermondsey.

There are plans to have the night market back in the borough up to four times next year.

Woolly idea pays off

A love of fashion and a passion for wool has seen the dreams of one former Kingston University student become a reality.

Henrietta Jerram, 23, who graduated in fashion design this June, used her love of wool to find inspiration for a new jumper design that has been picked up by Topshop and will be on sale from October 15.

Was damage to vehicles caused by drive-by shots?

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

An air gun may have been used in a suspected drive-by attack that shattered two car windows.

Residents in Connaught Road, New Malden, were left shocked by the incident, which happened at about 9pm on Saturday, September 29.

Dylan White was visiting his mother in New Malden when his Volvo estate parked in the street was attacked.

The 54-year-old from Guildford said he heard his car alarm go off and, on going to see what had happened, he discovered the back window had been shattered.

He said: "I assumed someone had smashed it with a hammer.

"But when you look at it you could see that the first shot had gone on the rim. The second shot had gone through.

"It looked like an air gun. Somebody is driving around shooting at windows.

"You just don't think that would happen."

Hazel Brown's green Mini was parked on the roadside and also had its back window shattered, but she said she did not hear anything and was alerted to the incident by police.

She said: "You just don't expect it. It seems awful, like a drive-by shooting in America. It was a shock."

A Kingston police spokesman said they were called to the scene to reports of damage to a car and found two cars with shattered windows but no property was stolen.

The spokesman said: "Police are currently investigating the incidents and considering whether the damage was caused by an air weapon.

However, no pellets were found at the scene to support this theory."

More than £300 of damage was caused during the incidents. Both victims had their windows repaired, but warned people to park in their drive-ways wherever possible.

What a spray to go

A shopkeeper is threatening to paint over a piece of Banksy-style Olympic-themed graffiti.

Bradley Wiggins, Mo Farah and the Queen adorn a wall on the side of a Richmond Road store north of the station.

The shopkeeper, who identified himself as Ram, said: "We are going to have it removed."

"They said they would write MD Electronics but they did not and they did not come back to do it. We are going to paint over it and put MD Electronics."

Graffiti artist Paul Don Smith, who lives in Kingston, said: "I did the painting just after the Olympics sometime when the Paralympic Games were going on. I just got on to that excitement of the Olympics and I wanted to contribute to it. I am all about positioning and with the road races going through Kingston it seemed right – especially to have Wiggins.

"I have done one in Richmond too. I am trying to paint one in Hampton Court. I am trying to find the perfect location for it."

The artist, who has been spraying for more than 20 years, said it had taken him half a day to cut the stencils and just half an hour to work his magic on the day.

The father-of-two said: "I do all my stuff legally now.

"I design things people like and want to see."

New initiative just the trick for our vicars

Stressed, overweight and hard-drinking clergy are being targeted by a campaign that aims to get reverends revved up.

The Vicar Vitality initiative aims to get ministers, vicars and pastors fit and healthy by offering support and discounted access to their gyms in Kingston, Surbiton and Wimbledon.

The campaign was launched after YMCA London South West found that, of 100 Kingston church leaders on its database, seven had been signed off on long-term sickness in recent months and suffered from obesity and depression.

The research found, of those who completed the survey, 70 per cent have a medical condition that required treatment, 80 per cent skipped breakfast at least once a week, and 50 per cent drunk five times a week.

The YMCA's Ben Mole said the organisation wanted to give something back to the selfless people who gave so much to the community.

He said: "We came across a few guys working in church leadership roles who felt stressed.

"It is a daunting task. We wanted to give something back.

"They are there to help support the community and there is that issue of who is supporting them."

Mr Mole said more than 10 church leaders had already taken up the offer of a month's free membership with more interest rolling in.

Learning is now plane sailing for uni students

by CHRISTINE FLEMING

cfleming@london.newsquest.co.uk

A 45ft aeroplane section has landed at Kingston College in time for the start of the new term.

The segment of an Embraer EMB 110 Bandeirante passenger plane forms part of a new aviation village at the college's Penrhyn Road site and is a tribute to Kingston's strong aeronautical history.

According to the college the unusual addition of a large aeroplane segment will become an interactive resource for students.

Travel and tourism lecturer Daniel Dobranski said: "This will become a unique and exciting resource for all our learners in travel and tourism together with our engineering learners."

The arrival of the unorthodox teaching aid has taken eight months' planning and will provide a chance for students to get hands-on experience of working with a real plane.

The South American-built aircraft usually carries about 20 passengers and is generally used for internal flights, as opposed to the military Hawker jets that were once built in Kingston.

David Hassard, of the Kingston

Dropping in: The fuselage section will be used by those studying travel and tourism and aeronautical engineering aviation centenary project, said: "I am delighted that Kingston University and Kingston College still have aeronautical departments and still do these sorts of things.

"They are investing in their aeronautical departments and making sure people get their hands on real aeroplanes.

That is great as we don't want the heritage and knowledge and skills in this area to be lost."

The plane will be used by engineering students to practise restoration and repair work and by travel and tourism students for cabin crew sessions.

An extra aircraft fuselage section, complete with 12 seats, fully useable emergency doors, a galley area and cabin crew jump seat will also be used for emergency drills and rapid decompression demonstrations.

Kingston University also has its own real aircraft teaching facilities and is home to a Learjet, which can be used for students to practise their skills.

Failings over baby inquest delay

by TOM BARNES

tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

A coroner has apologised to grieving parents after it took three years for mistakes that led to the death of their twin baby daughter to be heard at inquest.

Lucy Wood, conceived with IVF treatment, suffocated during delivery at Kingston Hospital on June 29, 2009, and spent the rest of her short life on life support. Her twin survived.

Coroner Dr Peter Ellis criticised the hospital for failing to report the death, forcing parents Lucy and Malcolm Wood to contact the coroner's court to get to the bottom of their baby's death.

They had to wait until August 2010 to discover there had been an internal investigation, despite raising concerns at a meeting two months after Lucy's death, a situation described as lamentable by Dr Ellis.

At that meeting a consultant dismissed concerns over the handling of the birth, even though multiple investigations were ongoing, her inquest heard.

Speaking at Fulham Coroner's Court on September 28, Dr Ellis said: "I am very sorry it has taken three years for you to have this heard in court."

"We cannot turn back time

Making improvements: The coroner said profound changes had been made at Kingston Hospital 'to try to ensure this tragedy does not happen again' and make things right.

Deadlinepix KT65387

"I hope it is some comfort for you to know Lucy's death was not worthless and that has provoked profound changes at Kingston Hospital to try to ensure this tragedy does not happen again."

Recording a narrative verdict, he criticised the hospital for serious "individual and systematic failings in planning, supervision and monitoring" of the birth.

He pointed to a lack of effective leadership from on duty obstetrician Naguib Naguib, describing him as "a captain not on the bridge when he was most needed".

He stopped short of referring his case to the General Medical Council.

He said midwife Tatiana McGill had not followed basic guidelines, properly examined the foetal monitor or communicated with the on-duty registrar.

He said: "This ought to have been reported to this court by the hospital."

"The trust knew or ought to have known the pathologist's conclusion as to the cause of death was directly related to shortcomings in midwifery and obstetric care identified in the root cause analysis."

He said audits of multiple births at the hospital did not indicate perfect standards, but steps had been taken to improve care.

An apology

The head of midwifery at Kingston Hospital apologised to the parents of Lucy Wood for failing to report the toddler's death to the coroner's court.

Anna Dellaway issued a public apology on behalf of the hospital, admitting it should have contacted the court after an internal investigation had taken place.

She said a child death scrutiny panel was recently established to investigate all child deaths and to report the deaths to the coroner's office.

She said: "Firstly, on behalf of the trust, I would like to personally and publicly say how sorry we are for the sad and tragic loss of Lucy Wood. We acknowledge we had an opportunity once the investigation was done to report to the coroner and for that we apologise."

When asked why the family's concern over the handling of the birth was dismissed so early into the investigation, she said: "When Mrs Wood was seen by the obstetrician the report was still in progress so the obstetrician was not able to provide her with all the information. Serious incident investigations can be a lengthy process."

She admitted neither Mr Naguib nor Mrs McGill had been disciplined following the incident, but said a programme of development was put in place to deal with concerns raised in the investigation.

Staff from Your Healthcare, Kingston's NHS community health provider, recreated Surbiton Hospital, which was demolished to make way for a school and health centre.

War of words breaks out over kids' ward

by CHRISTINE FLEMING

cfleming@london.newsquest.co.uk

Edward Davey's declaration of victory in the campaign to save a Kingston Hospital children's ward has been questioned by political opponents who said the Sunshine ward was still threatened.

The ward was in the frame to be shut by the Better Services Better Value (BSBV) review, which aims to improve services and save money.

The 26 inpatient beds in the Sunshine ward could be closed and moved to St George's Hospital Tooting if recommendations of the BSBV NHS review are pushed through.

Mr Davey, MP for Kingston and Surbiton, said last month the Sunshine ward had been saved.

But Richard Donnelly, secretary of Kingston Trades Council, which represents local trade unions, said: "Ed Davey has tried to claim victory against plans to close Sunshine – but nothing has actually changed from the proposals.

"SW London NHS still wants to close down the inpatients' services for local children – and that means parents will have to commute to Tooting to see their sick kids."

Political battle: Richard Donnelly said Edward Davey MP's campaign had not saved the Sunshine ward

Better Services Better Value declined to comment on whether it had changed its proposals since the launch of the Save Sunshine ward campaign.

Mr Davey insisted the proposals had changed since his campaign with a "paediatric assessment unit" changed to a "short stay ward".

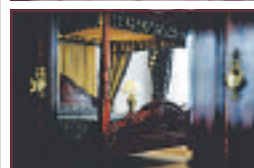

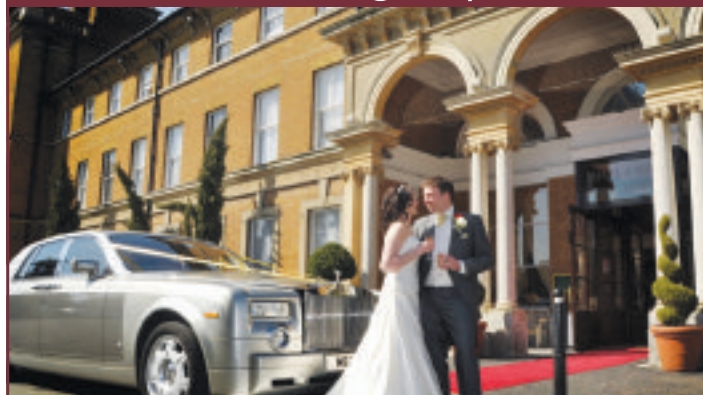

He also said the review team were on the record as saying the "vast majority" of children treated now at Kingston would continue to be treated there, which he said was very different from how the original proposals were explained and understood by medical staff at Kingston Hospital.

He said: "I'm finding it irritating when people are effectively accusing me of lying when I'm repeating things from the hospital. "I'm clear from what I have read and been told, they have changed significantly."

The plans will be subject to public consultation later this year.

Found your dream home? – Don't be duped into a bad buy

Did you sign the papers on your new home without getting legal advice? Don't pay the movers yet, for you may be in for some unwelcome surprises.

The Law Society says that unsuspecting home buyers who don't consult a solicitor risk being hit by hidden liabilities, fraud, or deception. Some buyers, for example, have purchased a property expecting to add an extension, only to find out later that their DIY dream is a definite no-no.

Others have found themselves being targeted by the taxman after failing to understand what's due.

Don't be duped into a bad buy. Steer clear of legal problems by getting a solicitor to advise you at each stage of the process, from making an offer to getting the keys to the door.

Find a solicitor that suits you

For many, a solicitor is someone who you can trust to give you the best advice in any situation. That's why it's important that you find a solicitor that suits you. Start by asking your family and friends for their recommendations. You can also use online tools such as the Law Society's Find A Solicitor service to find a suitable solicitor.

Find A Solicitor lets you search for firms and solicitors near you, who specialise in the area of law you need help in.

Charges vary between firms and solicitors, so it's worth comparing different providers to make sure you get a good deal. You should also do some research on the kind of service they can offer.

Remember that not all those offering conveyancing services are qualified solicitors. Protect yourself and your rights by using an expert regulated by the Solicitors Regulation Authority (SRA).

Avoid legal pitfalls

Are you buying a leasehold property? You still need legal advice. A solicitor can help you understand the terms and conditions, as well as the service charges and management costs that you will have to pay.

Buying at an auction or 'off plan' – where building is not finished when you sign the papers – can add new legal pitfalls. Consult a solicitor who is qualified in all areas of property law to make sure you get things right.

There are other home buying hoops that you may need to jump through.

If you buy a home with your husband or wife, consider how the property will be owned if one of you passes away.

If you're not married, you can enter a 'deed of trust' to set out how you and your partner share the property.

Buying a home is buying a major asset, so it makes sense to write a will to cover all eventualities. Once again, a solicitor will be able to advise.

Don't hold off on getting legal advice after your relationship hits the rocks. It might cost you dearly.

It's easy for things to get heated after a breakup. Few couples see eye to eye about practical arrangements, such as where your children are going to live or how you should split your home and possessions.

Family courts rightly encourage divorcing and separating couples to use a mediator to help them through their feuds.

However, it can be risky to go solo during mediation. The Law Society's advice is that to make the most of mediation, you should get advice from a solicitor before, during and after the mediation process.

Find someone to fight your corner

In family mediation, a mediator helps you and your ex-

Relationship hit the rocks? Get advice from a solicitor or risk losing out!

partner go through your concerns and needs.

The mediator acts as a third party, a kind of referee, whose job it is to make sure that both sides of a warring couple get their say -- they should help you and your ex keep on the settlement track. You don't need to worry about speaking your mind, because anything you share in the mediation is kept private.

Some mediators are also qualified solicitors, who can bring their understanding of the law to your case. You need to know though, that a mediator can't give you 'partial' or 'just for you' advice during the mediation. You also can't hire the solicitor that mediated your breakup if you end up going to court.

Mediation can help you avoid further fights and bickering as well as save you money, but don't be rushed into accepting any outcome. Always have a solicitor -- one who hasn't been involved in the mediation -- check the results, especially if it all needs to be approved by a court later on.

Even if you're happy with how the mediation is going, it's worth getting advice from your own solicitor. If you don't understand what an out-of-court settlement means, for example, your solicitor can help clarify things.

Remember that a mediator is always neutral. Only a solicitor can be there to fight your corner. So if you fear that mediation will make you the doormat of your divorce, get a solicitor to advise you.

Don't go into court alone

Sometimes mediation isn't enough. If you and your ex can't come to an understanding, a solicitor can be your ally if you go to court.

It may be tempting to save money by representing yourself in court, but you may end up not getting what you want or what you deserve, and it costing you more in the long run. Although the cost of using a solicitor can be a serious concern, even taking legal advice before going to court and representing yourself can be money well spent.

Better cycling security in town centre is good idea

After reading the open letter to Councillor Shiraz Mirza asking for improvements for cyclists in the Kingston area rather than a monument as a legacy from the Olympics, I wanted to make a further suggestion (Better cycling safety would be perfect Olympic legacy, September 27).

I used to really enjoy cycling along the towpath from Walton to Kingston for an afternoon shopping combined with exercise, but last time I did this both my and my husband's bike were stolen from the rack outside John Lewis, opposite TK Maxx.

I was shocked at the police reaction when I asked them advice about what to do to prevent this in future and they simply told me that the rack I used was a crime hotspot, thefts are really common and it seems the CCTV is of little use.

They said no matter how good the bike lock, a thief can break through it and the only remedy would be to find another rack further in the centre of town and not leave the bike too long.

I feel I have no choice now but to drive to Kingston, which means no exercise, frequent traffic jams and queues for the car park. I would really welcome a safe place to leave my bike and would be prepared to pay for it, say £1 for a secure bike park, still much cheaper than the car park.

Could a self financing scheme be investigated, whereby the bikes are held in a similar rack to the Barclays bikes?

I am sure people who want to go shopping by bike would be prepared to pay for additional security and therefore spend longer in Kingston patronising the shops and restaurants.

Staff parking minimal

As an AST ambulance service employee I felt the need to address the residents and especially Mike Hoare of Chessington Residents' Association (Ambulance job losses, September 27).

The main cause for concern to all the residents surrounding the company is "parking in the street".

On a scale of one to 10 with everything going on in the country, someone parking outside your house to go to work is possibly on the scale between one and two. A very minor nuisance at best, but not life changing.

AST has encouraged all the workers to use public transport, cycles or motorcycles/scooters to come to work wherever possible.

The amount of staff parking locally is minimal, but they are noticeable due to the green ambulance clothing and fluorescent jackets.

Next door to AST a new Tesco Express is being built.

With the size of the building, how many Tesco workers will have to park their vehicles in the adjoining streets? How much more traffic will it generate? This has not been questioned.

What will happen when someone parks outside your driveway because "they were only popping in quickly" to Tesco?

The residents have the inconvenience of parking a few extra yards away from their house, but what about the shopkeepers in the vicinity of Tesco that will have to close?

I can think of at least six stores within 100 yards that will no longer be able to generate a living for their family. The residents can look forward to a vast amount of charity shops starting up as no convenience shops will survive any longer.

AST has always tried to generate local businesses with their custom at all times.

Now we have been asked to leave by Mr Hoare and his association, it will be a loss to more people than just the staff being made redundant.

Just so people are aware of the directors who run the company, two ambulances were donated to a Caribbean country via one of the employees of the company only last month.

To finish I would just like to add that the next time (God forbid) an emergency vehicle is called out to this area, how far did they have to travel to attend and how sooner could it have arrived to save a life?

We need a permanent aviation museum

I was very pleased to see the letter from the mayor of Kingston expressing her "thanks to the people of Kingston... who made this summer's events in Kingston so special" (Well done, September 28).

However she made an error when she described the Kingston aviation centenary exhibitions as "the civil aviation centenary". Whatever one's views about military aircraft no one can deny that in the Battle of Britain Kingston's Hawker Hurricane, together with the Spitfire, saved this country and the Harrier led the world in vertical take-off and landing fixed wing aircraft and is still in service with the US forces, some of which recently got blown up by the Taliban.

Which leads me on to a plea. Is there anywhere in Kingston where we can have a permanent display of at least one complete aircraft, or replica, and memorabilia of Kingston's amazing 100 years of aircraft design and manufacture?

Having just visited the Zeppelin Museum in Friedrichshafen, by Lake Constance, what about a pavilion by the Thames in Canbury Gardens or, failing any other suggestion, the presently unused basement under John Lewis adjacent to the undercroft and old bridge footings; now that really would be history displayed.

Sharp focus on a woolly idea

Top of the shops: Henrietta Jerram's jumper design will be sold in Topshop

A love of fashion and a passion for wool has seen the dreams of one former Kingston University student become a reality.

Henrietta Jerram, 23, who graduated with a degree in fashion design this June, used her love of working with wool to find inspiration for a new woollen jumper design that has been picked up by Topshop and will sell at stores across the country from October 15.

Miss Jerram, whose student home was in Portland Road, Kingston, is now preparing to move to America and take up a post at fashion brand Abercrombie and Fitch and said she was ecstatic her design was becoming part of the Topshop brand.

She said: "I found I just fell in love with knitted garments and in my final collection I had a coat and trousers that were woven, but everything else I knitted myself.

"I was ecstatic when I was told my design was chosen.

"It is such a massive opportunity to just be out of university and have something in the actual shops."

Featuring a tongue-in-cheek sheep-inspired slogan "sheep thrills" emblazoned across a colourful take on a Fair Isle knit jumper base, Miss Jerram's design will be released by Topshop to mark national UK wool week.

The proud designer will be celebrating in a fitting manner.

She said: "I think quite a lot of us are going to Oxford Street on the morning it launches as everyone is excited and we joke it will be all my family and friends who are going to buy them."

Special Olympics team in gold medal haul

The Special Olympics Surrey team managed a stunning gold rush at a recent competition.

Six athletes from Team Kingston travelled to Ware in Hertfordshire to compete in the Special Olympics Eastern Regional Athletics event last month.

Despite being one of the smallest teams in the competition they returned home with eight medals out of the 11 up for grabs.

The athletes only had one training session since returning from the summer holiday break, but excelled on the day, winning five golds, two silvers and one bronze.

For more on the team, visit sosurrey.org.

Glad to be back: Laurentia Tan, centre, with fellow riders at the Diamond Centre

Back in the saddle at former riding school

A Paralympic medallist returned to the riding centre where she first trained when she was just five years old.

Laurentia Tan, an equestrian competitor from Kingston who won Singapore's first ever Paralympic medal, learned to ride at Carshalton's Diamond Centre for Disabled Riders.

The 33-year-old, who was born with cerebral palsy and is profoundly deaf, started at the centre when she was five years old to help with her mobility.

She went on to compete at the Beijing Paralympics for Singapore, gaining two bronze medals in dressage, and this summer at London 2012 she won silver and a bronze.

by SOPHIA SLEIGH

ssleigh@london.newsquest.co.uk

She returned to the centre last Sunday, taking part in a musical performance.

Speaking of her time at the centre, she said: "For many years, it was more therapeutic, helping with my mobility, my co-ordination, muscle strengthening.

"With riding, my posture and my walk improved a lot. I have always enjoyed riding and over the years I would often watch the more advanced riders with admiration."

She said it was great to return to the centre.

Miss Tan said: "To be honest, I did not realise it was not only going to be Singapore's first ever medals for the Paralympics, but also it was the first for the whole of Asia in the equestrian events.

"When my first event in the Beijing 2008 had finished and I got my bronze medal I felt as though I was dreaming – in a state of shock."

Miss Tan met her horse, Ruben James, last October and said she fell in love with him within five minutes of jumping in the saddle.

After winning two medals in London this summer Miss Tan took part in the victory parade in Singapore and enjoyed a champagne dinner.

Miss Tan trains with Diamond Centre's instructor Penny Pegrum and hopes to be selected for Rio in 2016.

Firefighters offered redundancy in cuts

Frontline firefighters have been offered voluntary redundancy by London Fire Brigade, which is considering the move as a way to make £65m worth of cuts.

Firefighters and non-uniformed staff for the capital's brigade received letters asking for expressions of interest in voluntary redundancy, which could help make savings ordered by Mayor Boris Johnson.

The Fire Brigades Union (FBU) secretary for Kingston and Richmond, Paul Neale, said the offer was based on the statutory minimum payments and it is hoped the offer would be increased.

He said: "It is highly unlikely such an unattractive offer would appeal to the broad mass of FBU members.

"Even if it did, we believe it would be premature and counter-productive to express interest in voluntary redundancy, especially given the authority's ongoing discussions with the Government regarding the potential for increasing the offer."

Mr Neale said the proposal might be seen as beneficial to about 80 firefighters in Kingston and Richmond who have done at least 30 years of service.

He said the union was concerned about the additional stress and workload that would be put on uniformed staff that remain in their jobs if the brigade decided to pursue voluntary redundancies.

A London Fire Brigade spokesman said: "Like virtually every other public service, the brigade is facing the need to make savings.

"We have been given a target for these savings, and we are currently considering our response to this. All options are being considered but no decisions have yet been made."

Mr Neale also claimed the brigade would not be recruiting in 2013.

London Fire Brigade (LFB) is due to publish formal proposals on budget cuts on November 15, which will be followed by a consultation with the union.

independence and wider responsibility. They enjoy the academic challenge as well as the many enrichment opportunities.

Sixth form students are expected to play a role in the day-to-day aspects of the school, and to contribute to important projects. Whether based at Ursuline High School or Wimbledon College Sixth Form, students' contribution to school life is valued. They have a strong sense of belonging to a familiar community.

Sixth form students also benefit from an exciting and varied enrichment programme in sport, drama, science music and many other extra-curricular activities, Oxbridge classes, links with medical and law schools, field work and cultural trips, and projects designed to complement their individual studies.

As a Roman Catholic sixth form, its students are invited to take full part in the life of the school through our chaplaincy, prefect system, leadership training and community service programmes and to develop as young people who seek to use their talents for the benefit of others.

An extensive and exciting curriculum

Tolworth Girls' School, and its thriving mixed sixth form, is a very successful Academy School, rated as outstanding by Ofsted.

Tolworth Sixth Form provides an extensive and exciting curriculum, offering a broad mixture of both vocational and academic subjects, which prepares students to successfully progress onto higher education or into employment. In recent years, it has produced an outstanding record of academic success, particularly at A* and A grades, and everyone who visits the school comments on the calm, purposeful atmosphere and the friendliness of the students and staff.

Its outstanding teachers are delighted to share their enthusiasm for their specialist subjects with students keen to study these at Advanced Level.

Additionally, students further benefit from a varied enrichment programme and always exceed potential.

Fostering independence and initiative

"At Southborough High School, we believe the progression from A-level/BTEC to degree is a crucial stage in any young person's life and we prepare carefully for this transition, helping our students achieve their ambitions," said a spokesman for the sixth form.

"We also believe that education is not solely limited to the academic sphere.

"We encourage our students to take the opportunity to participate in mentoring, enrichment activities and sports, enabling them to leave as well-rounded individuals as well as academic success stories."

"The mature way in which students are treated does much to foster their independence and initiative. Students cooperate well with each other and develop as highly confident, articulate individuals."

"We have an exciting future ahead, and with investment in new facilities and resources we will continue to inspire, motivate and challenge our students to aspire to achieve their best."

Ofsted inspectors said of the mixed intake sixth form: "The high retention rate reflects the enthusiasm and pride that students take in the school, and their enjoyment of it."

The open evening starts at 7pm on Thursday, October 18 when prospective parents and students can come and look around.

Staff and current students look forward to meeting you. For more details about the Hook Road, Surbiton, school visit www.southborough.kingston.sch.uk

Every pupil benefits from personal attention

Ewell Castle is a small independent day school located in the heart of Ewell Village.

Small class sizes and a commitment to achieving each pupil's potential ensure that every student benefits from dedicated personal attention.

All aspects of personal development are fostered, and pastoral care is consistently acknowledged to be outstanding (ISI Report 2012).

From September 2013, the sixth form at Ewell Castle will become co-educational.

Sixth formers at Ewell Castle follow a stimulating academic programme of AS and A-level courses, very much tailored to the needs of each individual pupil. They enjoy significant status within the school, and many are offered leadership and mentoring roles.

The traditional Castle building is complemented by newly completed sixth form facilities, which include a new computer suite and a modernised library.

Determination to reach highest standards

The Hollyfield School in Surbiton Hill Road, Surbiton, is located in attractive grounds and comprises a mix of grand Victorian, as well as much newer buildings, mirroring the school's blend of traditional values and modern teaching strategies.

The quality of teaching and learning is its first priority, and results at all levels are very impressive, proving clearly Hollyfield's commitment and determination to reach the highest possible standards.

It has also continued to develop its success with the International School Award and the Investors in Careers Kite Mark.

With more than 70 after-school clubs and nearly 100 trips each year, there is plenty of fun and learning to be had outside the normal day – you can even learn

Mandarin and Japanese – while sports, music, dance and drama all feature strongly at every level of the curriculum as well as during enrichment time.

Pupils in the school's thriving sixth form benefit from mobile learning devices so they can study wherever they are, 365 days a year, helping them obtain places in a wide range of universities and careers.

In top 5% of IB schools

Marymount International School continues to deliver outstanding results, maintaining the school's position in the top five per cent of IB (International Baccalaureate) Diploma schools worldwide.

This year, the school in George Road, Kingston, recorded its highest average ever and one student, Emma Takayama, achieved a full score of 45 points, achieved by only 0.2 per cent of students globally.

The international nature of the education, delivered within a multi-national environment, gives Marymount graduates the added advantage of being exceptionally well prepared for life in a global setting.

With more than 40 nationalities represented in the student body – nearly half of the graduating class received a bilingual diploma – the girls are more than able to understand and relate to each other with the greatest of ease.

Typically, students go on to top universities worldwide and have outstanding careers.

Marymount students clearly stand out in their chosen field. Students attest to having been stretched academically, socially and spiritually, and leave as confident, courageous, independent thinkers comfortable in a very complex multilingual, multicultural world.

Marymount's unique mixture of small classes, extensive choices in languages and subjects, delivered within a supportive and nurturing environment, are clearly a winning formula.

We wanted to make it more open and welcoming so people felt they could come in and enjoy the exhibits

ARTISTIC UPDATE

Marking 15 years in Kingston has been quite a celebration at one gallery as the landmark birthday has coincided with the property's first refurbishment since it opened, writes Christine Fleming.

The gallery, on a small island in the middle of the Hogsmill River, sits on the site of a former mill and prides itself on showing world-class art on residents' doorsteps while maintaining the heritage of the site by producing works within in-house studios.

Gallery director David Falkner said funding from the Stanley Picker Trust and Kingston University had enabled them to make improvements to make the gallery even more welcoming to the community.

He says: "The gallery never looked particularly welcoming on the outside even though we were very proud of what we do on the inside so we wanted to make it more open and welcoming so people felt they could come in and enjoy the exhibits."

"It was really important for us in terms of our engagement with the community as we want them to feel it is their gallery."

Visitors to the gallery, which officially re-opened on Thursday, October 4, can now spend time relaxing in a public lobby area at the front of the gallery as well as having access to a terrace overlooking the river.

And to mark the birthday of the gallery and its recent makeover the gallery has themed its current exhibition, The Occupants, on looking at the history of the late Stanley Picker and his unusual house in Kingston, which was designed by architect Kenneth Wood.

The exhibition includes sculptures, photography and films by contemporary British artists including 2012 Turner prize nominee

Elizabeth Price and members of the Stanley Picker scholarship programme, and there will also be video artworks on the gallery's website.

Falkner says: "What is exciting about the exhibit is it has got lots of contemporary artists making work about their interpretation of what Stanley Picker's house is and what its value is."

Shooting Stars and will be joined by comedians Dan Mitchell, Maff Brown and a mysterious special guest for a night of laughs.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

1. The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

2. The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.

3. The advertiser further confirms that:

- i) the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
- ii) all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
- iii) in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

4. All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.

5. By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.

6. We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

7. We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Cancellation

8. We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.

9. We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

10. We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

11. Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

12. We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.

13. We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.

14. The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.

15. We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer • CASH - Paid to one of our Branch Offices.
- CREDIT/DEBIT CARD - Please phone to pay by Visa/Mastercard/Switch/Delta

Surbiton stay rock bottom

Surbiton lost 2-1 to Canterbury at Sugden Road on Sunday missing the chance to climb off the bottom of the Men's Hockey League Premier Division table.

James Gall, far right, gave them a 51st minute lead, but within five minutes the visitors had equalised from a penalty corner. They notched the winner with two minutes to go.

Surbiton failed to score from nine penalty corner attempts.

Going back to what you know

Stand-in Surbiton Ladies skipper Sarah Haycroft is hoping her side's fast start to the Women's Hockey League Premier Division can fire her to a senior international call-up.

The 21-year-old returned to Sugden Road in the summer having spent three years with top flight rivals the University of Birmingham – where she was studying a history degree – and has helped her new team to an unbeaten start to the campaign.

Former Kingston Grammar School student Haycroft, who has led the team in the absence of regular captain and former Team GB star Chloe Strong, captained England's U21s to a bronze medal at the EuroHockey Junior Nations Championships in August.

The Wellington College teaching assistant has kept up that fine form as Surbiton have won four and drawn one of their opening five league and cup encounters thus far.

And with senior England trials in October and November on the horizon, Haycroft – who scored twice in Sunday's 13-0 Investec Women's Cup romp past Maidstone – can only hope it continues.

"The U21s programme was a good one, but unfortunately we just didn't quite reach our full potential at the Euros," said Haycroft.

"I've moved up to the seniors now and the October and November assessments decide who will be in the squad. That is the first target.

"The fact we are playing so well at such a high level of hockey, is only going to help with that."

Amy Bryant's first half penalty corner was enough for Surbiton to earn a 1-1 draw with Bowdon.

Highdown on Saturday. Surbiton host Leicester this week.

Hopeful: Sarah Haycroft

Bird flies home to Kingston

by TAIMOUR LAY

sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

Full back Tom Bird is hoping to rebuild some bridges at Kingsmeadow following his switch back to Kingstonian in the wake of his departure from crisis club Carshalton Athletic.

Ks, featuring Bird in their starting line-up for the first time since last season, went top of the Ryman Premier League on Saturday with a convincing 3-1 win over Lewes, thanks to a Wade Small brace and a Dean Lodge strike late on.

The talented left-back switched to Colston Avenue in the summer after being courted by big spending Robins owner and manager Paul Dipre, who stunned fans last week by releasing his contracted players amid first team budget cutbacks.

Bizarrely, Bird's original Bosman move to the Robins is still subject to a tribunal over the level of compensation Ks are entitled to for his services, although it is now unlikely to be pursued.

The 23-year-old admitted his relationship with Ks chief Alan Dowson had soured last season prior to his summer exit, but the pair have put that behind them in exchange for a Premier League promotion bid.

"I was happy to leave, to be honest. Things aren't right at Carshalton," he said.

"With the brilliant players we had, we should have been doing a lot better.

"Me and Dowse did fall out at the end of last season.

"We weren't talking at all. I was injured and wasn't playing well. When the summer came, Carshalton showed an interest.

"It wasn't about cash. I wanted to play for a team that expected to win the league and I'm ambitious. But I never should have left. It wasn't the same there.

"I'm comfortable at Ks. Dowse is the best manager I've ever had.

"I saw Kingstonian had got off to a great start and there are some very good players here now.

"I want to win the league with Ks and prove myself again to everybody."

No sooner had Kingstonian marched to the top of the table than they came back down again with a heavy defeat at Wealdstone on Monday night.

The descent to sixth place was all the more painful for being unexpected after going two goals up – through strikes from Andre McCollin and Gary MacDonald – with 18 minutes on the clock.

But a defensive collapse meant the game ended 5-2 to the hosts – and it could have been even worse with Aaron Goode fortunate not to be sent off for persistent foul play.

"We're a great team going forward, but we've had the same problems for the last two years defensively and I've got to fix that quickly," said Dowson.

"It was laughable at the end. Their attacking play was frightening, but our defending was frightening too."

Ks travel to Lowestoft Town on Saturday.

Now and then: Tom Bird holds off a Heybridge Swifts attacker in one of his last games for Carshalton Athletic and, below, Bird celebrates an Aaron Goode goal against the Robins last season

Onslow-Cole targets title challenge next year

New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole is confident he can challenge at the front of the British Touring Car Championship race next year providing he can get in a Next Generation Touring Car (NGTC), writes Stuart Amos.

The 25-year-old has had a solid if unspectacular campaign with Team eBay Motors in their S-2000 spec BMW – a season encapsulated in Sunday's 10th, sixth and fifth place finishes at Silverstone.

Onslow-Cole, who has a slim chance of winning the independent drivers' championship at Brands Hatch on October 21, is seventh in the overall drivers' standings and is without a race win in two years, but he is hopeful of staying with the Lower Sun-

Staying put: Tom Onslow-Cole, in action at Silverstone, has put staying with Team eBay Motors top of his winter wishlist bury-based outfit for 2013.

And he revealed work had already started to get him in a competitive car next term.

"An S-2000 car was never going to win the championship this year," he said. It is clear NGTC cars are the future so we have been one step behind this year.

"It is now all about next year for me. I'm definitely looking to stay with the team providing a deal can get sorted. With any luck that will be in a new NGTC BMW car if the team can agree a deal.

"If that can happen over the winter – and we'll be working hard to try and make it happen – then I will be looking forward to challenging for the title next year."

Worcester Park's Howard Fuller, who was forced to retire in race two, took his two Team HARD Honda Civic to two 11th place finishes in only his second BTCC race weekend.

Special Ks moving on Ks boss Alan Dowson has not closed the book on Bashiru Alimi and Mark Nwokeji's Kingstonian careers, insisting they remain part of his plans.

The pair have joined Ryman Division One South sides Corinthian Casuals and Merstham respectively on initial one-month loan deals.

"Bash and Mark are both excellent players, but they really need games after their injuries," said Dowson.

"Both need to get their match sharpness back and we'll look at it again in a month."

Dowson ruled out a move for former Carshalton Athletic striker Paul Vines after his release from Colston Avenue.

He added: "I can't justify signing an attacker when our defence is the problem."

Former Sutton United midfielder Karl Murray has quit Kingsmeadow by mutual consent and is expected to take a break from the game.

SPORTSbrief

FOOTBALL: Corinthian Casuals midfielder Jamie Byatt smashed in an injury-time winner to secure his side a 2-1 win at Worthing on Saturday – their first Ryman Division One South triumph of the season. Byatt struck from a free-kick on the edge of the area after the hosts had levelled Danny Green's first half opener. Boss Kim Harris' men host Hythe Town on Saturday with the visitors in buoyant mood. Their 5-2 win over Tooting & Mitcham cost Terrors boss Roberto Forzoni his job at the weekend.

RUGBY UNION: Kingston chalked up three tries and two penalties as they held off an Old Walscourtians fightback to secure a 25-17 win in Surrey Division One on Saturday. Old Tiffinians secured a third straight win with a 23-13 triumph at Old Wimbledonians to remain second in the table with Kingston third.

ATHLETICS: Stragglers Running Club's Roy Feeder won the Kingston parkrun on International parkrun Day, which celebrated the organisation's eighth birthday. Feeder clocked a respectable 18 minutes, 54 seconds to come home 14 seconds ahead of the rest.
